SEE Beyond Award---Resources for Government Students

The SEE-Beyond Program offers Government majors and minors the opportunity to put their classroom learning to practical use in the summer. The awards are designed to encourage students to participate in field research, residencies, workshops, apprenticeships, productions, and internships that complement the student’s learning plan.

The SEE-Beyond awardees “will receive a $4,000 stipend, and funds may be used at the student’s discretion to cover participation fees or tuition, travel expenses, and summer room and board. SEE Beyond Awards may be used to access opportunities anywhere in the world, except in countries with State Department travel warnings or advisories.” These SEE-Beyond experiences are expected to inform coursework and the development of concentrations in the field, so they are especially geared to juniors. Proposals from seniors and sophomores will also be considered if the applicants can make a compelling case for how the experience will relate to future educational endeavors. Interested Government majors and minors should submit a brief application to the Director of the Government SEE Beyond Committee, Professor Bob Turner. Application form and deadlines can be found on the SEE-Beyond webpage (http://www.skidmore.edu/see-beyond/). The application includes a 2-3 page typed essay describing the relevance of the experience to their educational goals. Describe your preparation for the experience and how the experience will enhance your liberal arts education. You must also provide a specific description of the activities and responsibilities associated with the work you will be doing. You must also identify an on-site supervisor or sponsor who will confirm your acceptance into the program, organization, or institution and indicate his or her support for the learning goals you describe. If final acceptance has not been obtained prior to the department deadline, the application will still be considered.

Should your proposal be selected for funding, you will have until mid-April to confirm acceptance. The Government Department will judge proposals based on the following criteria: the quality of the application essay; the relevance of the experience for the student’s academic goals and concentration; and the degree of preparation for the project. The Government Department will select one proposal to forward to the SEE-Beyond office on campus for a college-wide competition. The SEE Beyond website gives further details regarding the awards and includes a list of past awards (http://www.skidmore.edu/see-beyond/awards/).

What kinds of opportunities are available? Your options are endless.

Linked In Skidmore Government Majors, Linkedin.com

The Government Department maintains a network of Skidmore alums on the LinkedIn.com social networking site. LinkedIn is like Facebook for professionals and careers. It is a way for our alums and current students find to connect with others working in similar fields. Once you add Professor Bob Turner as a contact, you can contact all of the people in his network about job leads, interviews and ideas. He currently has about 400 contacts (and growing) who are a mix of Government and ES majors. There is also a Linked In Skidmore Government Majors group you should join. We also post job announcements, scholarships, and other career related information on the site.

Skidmore Political Alumni Club of DC
Adam Brand and Ryan Greer, Skidmore alums, have created a Facebook group called Skidmore Political Alumni Club of DC you can join. It is a way to connect with our alums in DC. Adam Brand and Ryan Greer have graciously offered to help any alum who is going to DC with networking on the Hill and beyond.

Internships in American Government

There are more internship opportunities in American government than can possibly be listed. Some are paid, many are not. Internships with national or state agencies are often paid, often quite well (New York agencies can pay $14 an hour). Political internships with elected officials are usually not.
