PRÁCTICA EN INVESTIGACIÓN SOBRE LA IDENTIDAD PSICOLÓGICA

Internship: Psychological Identity Research

- This internship will begin with extensive readings on the topic (“the identity). Readings will include works from the founders of the discipline to the most recent research completed by leading psychologists in the area. Once oriented in the subject, the intern will design an experiment to test ways a junior in college’s identity changes after living and studying abroad. With the guidance from the supervisor, Alejandro Iborra, the intern will decide what psychological tool/method will best measure the change in identity. The intern will then take on the role of experimenter and look at the changes occurring in other students on the Program. After intensive preparation and investigation the intern will gather the results and analyze them. Extensive reading and research paired with hands-on investigation constitutes the principal aspects of this internship.

PRÁCTICA EN LA CRUZ ROJA (MUJER EN DIFICULTAD SOCIAL)

Internship with Red Cross: Women in Social Crisis

The work includes various activities such as organizing and leading activities during certain hours known as “space for Women” as well as meeting with women who have requested the GPS phones. The intern works with a team of other volunteers and helping to assess the needs of the women who come to the Red Cross and Plan activities accordingly.

PRÁCTICA EN IMDEA AGUA

Internship with IMDEA AGUA

Prof. Pablo Traspas

- IMDEA-Agua creates an interdisciplinary forum in the Community of Madrid of scientific knowledge related to sustainable water management. It works to consolidate its position as a national and international reference within the integrated water management field. My independent research on the impact of women specific mainstreaming programs within the field will help IMDEA-Agua to develop a strategic goal concerning the economic and social value of water. My research there will serve as a jumping off point for my senior thesis.

PRÁCTICA OFICINA RELACIONES INTERNACIONALES DE LA UAH
