

WOMEN IN AMERICAN CULTURE

American Studies 363 001

Tisch Learning Center 308

Professor M. C. Lynn

Spring 2011

W, F, 10:10-11:30

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

An examination of the changing position of women in American culture and society from the seventeenth century to the present. Topics will include the developing familial, economic, sexual, educational, and political roles of women, as well as consideration of the suffragist and feminist movements. Issues of race, class, ethnicity will be included, and resources from a variety of disciplines will be used, including material culture, history, literature, politics, sociology, and economics.