Agenda items:

It was a cold and frosty December morning. The only ray of sunshine were the free donuts being handed out by Student Life in Case Center. Amidst the gloom, CEPP moved quickly to finalize plans for recording policy statements/implementation. Nick promised to use all of PhD level English when meeting with SGA later in the week.

With bated breadth, we moved on to talk about the status of Middle States.

Jamin brought up the issue of hand written evaluations at Skidmore for students with accommodations, which prompted a brief discussion of the eventual shift to on-line evaluations. It was noted that this issue has been raised in the past give the time consuming nature of paper evaluations combined with there only being 1 provider. We discussed CEPP focusing on the process of how to implement online evaluations, rather than the content of the questions.
