OCTOBER 25, 12:00-2:00 PM – LUNCH WORKSHOP WITH DR. LORRE WOLF (PAYNE ROOM)

Dr. Lorre Wolf, Director of Disability and Access Services at Boston University, will be leading a lunch pedagogy workshop. Along with Dr. Jane Thierfeld Brown, Dr. Wolf developed a model of service delivery for college students entitled “Strategic Education for students with Autism Spectrum Disorders.” The pedagogy workshop will discuss autism and some symptoms; strategies for classroom management; reasonable accommodations and access versus eligibility. There will also be time for questions about specific issues.

NOVEMBER 15, 3:00-4:30 PM – CONNECTMORE

ConnectMORE is an interactive workshop designed to strengthen our community's capacity to respond empathically and effectively to students experiencing mental health crises. The workshop goals include helping participants practice active engagement skills so that they feel more prepared to support students in distress and making sure participants know about the network of on-campus resources and how to effectively refer students in need.
