Wednesday, April 7th, 8:00 p.m.
Gannett Auditorium

You are invited to attend the second Zankel Lecture in Management and the Liberal Arts at 8.00 p.m. on April 7 at the Gannett Auditorium. The Zankel Lecture celebrates the contributions of Arthur Zankel to Skidmore College and is expected to exemplify the affinities between Management and the Liberal Arts. The Lecture also serves as a forum for the discussion of management and business issues from a broader societal and ethical perspective. The lecture will be followed by a reception.

The third Zankel Lecture will be delivered by Professor Pushkala Prasad who is currently the Zankel Professor of Management for Liberal Arts Students at Skidmore College. Dr. Prasad will focus on the American beef industry's ability to sustain its legitimacy in the wake of numerous crises concerning the safety of industrial beef. Her talk is entitled Eat Like a Man: America's Deadly Romance with Beef, and will examine beef's historical and ongoing appeal through the discourses of nationalism and masculinity.

Please join us for what promises to be a most interesting lecture.

James J. Kennelly

Chair, Department of Management and Business
