Join us in Murray-Aikins for Living the Liberal Arts to welcome our new Inductees!

Mark your calendars! Friday, February 26th the Honors Forum is teaming up with the Career Development Center for Living the Liberal Arts, a program that brings alums to campus to talk about how their life at Skidmore prepared them for their careers. The event, taking place on the second floor of the dining hall at 5 pm, will feature an introduction from our director, Dr. Golden, and a panel discussion from two Honors Forum graduates: Annie Potish ’11, and Dr. Jessada Mahatthananchai ’09. Dinner will be provided- with options for the vegetarians among us. Don’t forget to come show your support for the inductees and learn about life after Honors Forum from our panelists. And please remember to RSVP for the event through your Skidmore My CDC account.

Come see The Lion King with us at Proctors Theatre! Tickets alone are originally $80, but the whole trip is only $20! Email Lisa to reserve your spot by March 1st

Some background on the Living the Liberal Arts speakers...

Anne Potish graduated from Skidmore in 2011. She was an English major who double minored in History and Honors Forum. After graduating, she did Teach for America and has continued teaching and earned a Masters of Teaching degree. Over her career she has taught in inner city schools and currently teaches middle schoolers.

Jessada Mahatthananchai graduated in 2009 with a degree in Chemistry and minors in English and HF. He earned his PhD in Chemistry at ETH Zurich. He now teaches at Skidmore!
