American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education, Inc.

<http://www.aahhe.org/>

The American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education (AAHHE) is not a new organization, but rather an evolving organization. It is an outgrowth of the Hispanic Caucus, which was a component of the now defunct American Association of Higher Education (AAHE). As such, AAHHE has a twenty year history. Throughout its history, AAHHE has been involved in numerous activities with three goals in mind: (1) Increasing the pipeline of Hispanic faculty in higher education; (2) Bringing issues pertinent to Hispanics to the attention of the larger academic community; and (3) Recognizing the achievements and accomplishments of Hispanics as they pertain to our academy.

American Indian Science and Engineering Society

<http://www.aises.org/>

Diverse Issues in Higher Education

<http://www.diverseeducation.com/>

Diverse has undergone significant changes in the past year to allow the magazine to examine diversity from a variety of vantage points. Our editorial focus today is far more inclusive as we now address a blend of the needs of African Americans, Asian Americans, Hispanics and American Indians in higher education. Our readership is expanding each day as the higher education community is now joined by subscribers from business, government and related environments. We wanted Diverse to have broader readership appeal and that has happened.

Diversity Inc. Careers

<http://www.diversityinc.com/careers/>

With an audited circulation of a 150,000, Diversity Inc. is a monthly magazine and daily website that demonstrates how business profits by embracing differences- in race, gender, orientation, ability, age and class. By providing foundational information about the business benefits of diversity we've been a catalysis in moving diversity from a compliance mandate to a serious business discipline. Founded in 1998, Diversity Inc. has expanded from its origins as an on-line publication⁴ Diversity Inc.com-into a national magazine in 2002. Diversity Inc. Is a privately owned company with no outside investors.
