

2005

A READING BY JOHN BANVILLE

LECTURE

EVIDENCE

TUESDAY
OCTOBER 11
8 P.M.

JOHN BANVILLE

GANNETT

AUDITORIUM

RECEPTION
FOLLOWING

"REMARKABLE....IF ALL CRIME NOVELS WERE LIKE THIS ONE, THERE WOULD NO LONGER BE NEED FOR A GENRE."
—RUTH RENFELL

Irish novelist John Banville is the author of the critically acclaimed novels Doctor Copernicus; Kepler, which won the Guardian Prize for fiction in 1981; and The Book of Evidence, which was short-listed for the Booker Prize in 1989 and won the Guinness Peat Aviation award the same year. His latest book is The Sea (2005), which is a finalist for this year's Booker Prize.

SKIDMORE
COLLEGE