

ECOMORE TEAM

Spring 2023, Jan 24- May 12

Compensation: $12.75/hr

10 open positions

Max. 30hr per semester

This team of student staff leads campus sustainability engagement efforts through peer-to-peer education, designing and running events, staffing Zero-Waste events, and more. This program is designed to empower students to design education efforts that address and explore sustainability topics that are captivating, relevant to current events, and timely to Skidmore.

The EcoMore team meets on a weekly basis with a student EcoMore Manager to develop educational programming that engages and educates peers on various sustainability topics. Outreach will address both human and environmental impacts of global climate change and solutions on campus and beyond. Specific topics may include climate anxiety, environmental racism, transportation, conservation, environmental movements, diversity in the outdoors, accessible recreation, recycling, plastic pollution, cradle-to-cradle economics, capitalism and climate, art and sustainability, international politics, and more.

The Sustainability Office will offer a variety of all-staff activities to support general operations, such as food waste buffets, waste audits, and move-out donation collection at "Give+Go". EcoMore team members will staff Zero Waste Events each semester, monitoring waste stations at large outdoor events, like Earth Day.

EcoMore Team members are not expected to be well-versed in campus sustainability or climate solutions, and the meetings at the start of the semester will include training. A strong EcoMore candidate will eagerly support hands-on sustainability work on campus and be excited to create peer-to-peer engagement events. We seek to create a team of diverse interests, academic majors, and approaches.
